

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

A. CONCLUSION

1. Implementation of Women's Leadership School Program

Based on previous chapters, can conclude that YSKK as a non-governmental organization engaged in one of the areas of women's empowerment, able to influence the mindset of the women at the Women's Leadership School. In front of it has been said that the position of women in Gunungkidul is still low participation in the political sphere, the Women's Leadership School was present to provide knowledge in particular fields of leadership and governance for the women to be able to occupy a strategic position in the organization or the Government. In the implementation program invites the attention of Women's Leadership School women in Gunungkidul, so that not a few women who participated in the program, although early Women's Leadership School from implemented of program a little difficulty because many women who migrated to the city to work, but some women have demonstrated its existence to the community which then they managed to establish the Forum Srikandi Desa (FSD) who is engaged in the field of leadership and governance.

2. The Factors that Affect of The Implementation of Women's Leadership School

Then presented some of the factors that influence the implementation of women's Leadership School in Gunungkidul, such as:

The factors Supporting Women's Leadership School

1. Standard policies and objectives appropriate to the program of SKP.
2. Human resource Factor in this case from the YSKK had been give competent teachers.
3. The financial Factors of the Women's Leadership School is donors from several parties who assist the implementation of the Women's Leadership School program.
4. Characteristics of the implementing agencies, namely the characteristics of the YSKK who contributed to building the program relating to the empowerment of women through women's Leadership School in Gunungkidul.
5. Disposition of the implementor is the role of YSKK in the carrying out of programs well and support Women's Leadership School elite politics in the Gunungkidul.

Factors Restricting Women's Leadership School

1. The material resources Factors, namely the absence of some supporting facilities such as book readings on leadership and governance.
2. Analysis of social conditions Related Community of Women's Leadership School namely the participations factors are still experiencing barriers because it is difficult to get a productive cadre, as well as opinions from several communities mainly families of participants of the Women's Leadership School, they still assume that the Women's Leadership School related to learning the Gender affects the mindset of rural women.
3. The economic conditions of the Community Related Programs Women's Leadership School Gunungkidul especially women of productive age are more likely to repair their economies with a wander into town for work so that the level of interest in the political activity still tend to be low.

B. SUGGESTIONS

In the implementation of the programme relating to the empowerment of women in areas such as political women's Leadership School Program is not easy, in addition to YSKK as implementing a women's Leadership School from 2013-2015, then the Government's role should be further enhanced in Gunungkidul anymore, so not only by giving the facilitator can provide assistance but financial as well as other support such as the provision of material support is book readings for the participants of the Women's Leadership School or other things that can help the development of the women's empowerment program.

In addition, the active participation of the society especially women to follow programs of empowerment can be improved again, there should be counseling as well as support from the NGO's or the Government to arouse the society to actively follow the empowerment activities, because if a society is able to flourish then have a major impact for the progress of the region they live in.

To get maximum results, then the economic improvement in Gunungkidul Regency must be increased again, to fix the economy can utilize and manage existing resources in Gunungkidul, and so can be realized business opportunity and an increase in the extent of Gunungkidul economy.
