Acknowledgement

First and foremost, praises and thanks to Allah S.W.T, the Almighty, for His showers of blessings throughout my research work to successfully completed it. I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to my university for giving me the opportunity to do research and providing invaluable sources throughout this research. I have to thank my research supervisor, Sri Sudarsi, S.S, M.InT. Her dynamism, vision, sincerity and motivation have deeply inspired me. She has taught me the methodology to carry out the research and to present the research works as clearly as possible. It was a great privilege and honor to work and study under her guidance. She is the best supervisor I have ever met. I am also extremely grateful for Fitria Rahmawati, S.Pd. M. Hum., and Puput Arfiandhani, S. Pd. M. A., without their assistance and dedicated involvement in every step throughout the process, this paper would have never been accomplished. So thank you so much for your support and understanding.

Most importantly, none of this could have happened without my family. I have experienced some ups and downs in the past years. Every time I was ready to quit and feel down to finish this thesis, they did not let me and keep support me. I am forever grateful for that. This paper stands as a testament to your unconditional love and encouragement. Also I express my thanks to my one and only brother for his silent support and valuable prayers. I am aware that we might not have a close brother-sister relationship, but I know he always pray the best for me. And I would like him to know that I love him more than I could express.

My special thank goes to all my best friends, Ocil, Pina, Ndung, Putri, Mbak Akih, Enok, Caabat, Isma, Ripa, Fitri, Mbak Frida, Bibi, Tuan, Bang Riko, Anggit, Hery, Faiz, Oji, Ipan, and the rest of Extraordinary Class members that I cannot mention one by one. I could manage to finish this thesis thanks to their never-ending supports, loves, and encouragements. I know that there is nothing in this world I can use to repay all your good deeds. I am nothing without you guys, so thank you and I love you.

I also like to thank my best friends in Belitung, Putri, Abdi, Indi, Rosita, Viteq, Baqpao, Titin, Aini, Yolisa, Ike, Korry, Fauzan, Dirga, Lukman, and Megy. Thank you for always there to support and wish the best for me. I could not be more grateful.

I also wish to thank all students of ELED batch 2015 who were participated this study, my KKN mates, my relatives and my entire friend in Yogyakarta. I might not mention all of your names here but I highly appreciate all your kindness. Last but not lease, I also would like to thank all staffs and lecturers of ELED for the support and enormous knowledge during my study at UMY.

I am extending my thanks to the one only love and idol in my life, G-DRAGON or Kwon Ji-Yong oppa, who has become my strength and source of happiness whenever I feel down to finish this thesis. You are one of the best things happened in my life. I love you so much and I cannot wait to meet you and see your smile again in the next two years after you discharged from the military.

My gratitude also goes to all the people who have supported me to complete the research work directly or indirectly.

Abstract

The purpose of this thesis is to discover the perception of the students towards E-learning. This research focused on three main objectives; how the students perceive the activities done in E-learning, the benefits of E-learning and the challenges that the students faced in E-learning. This research was conducted at English Language Education Department (ELED) of a private University in Yogyakarta. The descriptive qualitative design was used as a research method of this study. The research data was collected through the interview. The participants who were involved in this study were six students of batch 2015 from 4 different classes that have taken all subjects related to E-learning. The result revealed that the students thought that E-learning are not bore, enjoyable, simple and flexible. The results of the research also showed that there are six activities done in E-learning. The activities that have been done in E-learning are learning how to operate free learning platform, learning how to make use of free online teaching tools, doing quiz and games, doing online discussion, giving and submitting assignment, making use of available learning tools, learning how to create an online class. This study also revealed that E-learning gave three general benefits to the students, such as cost effective, enriches the students' knowledge of technology, and useful for the students' references as their teaching method in the future. Additionally, this research also indicated that there are also six obstacles that the students faced in E-learning. The challenges regarding E-learning implementation are unclear instructions, delayed and unclear feedbacks, techno-illiteracy, cheating and plagiarism, low interaction, and the last is distraction.
