ABSTRACT

The phenomenon about handling of refugees is kind of a focus of world attention nowadays. In some cases, the problem about handling the refugees of Middle-East has become one of the most debated case by many people in the world. Germany is one of the country that face this case. Firstly, Germany takes open door policy for handling the refugees from Middle-East. But over time, a lot of refugees that come to Germany territory are not appropriate with their expectations. So, it makes the government of Germany to take an action by changing the policy become border control to tighten their territory in their border area. There are many factors that makes Germany to change their policy. Other than the reason for criminal that did by the refugees, still there are another reasons that can be a background of the government to change the policy for handling the case of refugees that faced by them.

Keyword: Refugees, Germany, Decision Making Process.