Acknowledgement

First off all, I would like to deliver my greatest gratitude to my lord Allah SWT, for His mercy and blessing so I finally finish this research.

Secondly, my greatest thank and appreciation go to my beloved advisor, Ms. Fitria Rahmawati, S.Pd., M.Hum., for her kindness, guidance, knowledge, support, and everything that I can't mention anymore.

I am also grateful for all my classmates, the students of class A batch 2012, such a miracle each of you stayed together in one class since our first semester. Bundel, Anna, Aji, Irfan, Fidad, Putri, Mas Angga, Anas and all of you guys, thank you for the love, togetherness, and experience that is so memorable.

My gratefulness is also for the pretty ladies with all their pretty heart and uniqueness, Lisa, Kiki, Rini, Wulan, Mita, Dova, Mba Ade, and the non-pretty-one Fendita, thank you for your supports, cheers, jokes, and knowledge.

My biggest thanks is also for Inah the one who is always there, thank you for the holy flashdisk, finally it will be back to you after this four-half years. Tiwi, Santi, Siti & Religia for being my sisters from another mother. The guys who have colored my college life. Then also Berrybeanbag Family for the valuable-leadership experience, thank you for being my greatest achievement.

Most importantly, this research could not have happened without my family support. To my big brother Joe for being my enemy and spiritual teacher throughout his life, my not-so-little-anymore brother To'o, and the little annoying one Putri. They received my deepest gratitude and love for always irritating me with a lot of way. Nevertheless, to my dad pak Zen, who always disagrees with all my decision and never treat me like an adult woman, to my beloved mom Ibu Zen, who always support me and love me no matter how messy I am, you are the real life angel and I am blessed to be your daughter. This undergraduate thesis is dedicated to their unconditional love and encouragement.
